

Bio Joanne Macgregor

Website: www.joannemacgregor.com

Joanne Macgregor is the author of seventeen books, across multiple genres and pen names. With a dayjob as a counselling psychologist, she brings twenty-six years of experience to her crime writing, creating deep, complex characters and realistic psychological reactions.

LONG

Joanne Macgregor is the author of seventeen books, across multiple genres and pen names. Under the name Jo Macgregor, she writes gripping, unpredictable crime mysteries such as The First Time I Died, The First Time I Fell, The First Time I Hunted, The First Time I Knocked, and Dark Whispers (translated into the Afrikaans Skadustemme).

Joanne Macgregor is also a counselling psychologist in private practice, and she brings her twenty-six years of experience as a therapist to her writing, creating deep, complex characters and more realistic psychological reactions.

She lives in beautiful Plettenberg Bay, is in love with nature and chilies, and despairs of ever properly training her charm-monster of a beagle!